Dear friends, partners
and colleagues,

We're always on the lookout for something special, especially in dire times like these, to make the world a little brighter. That might be a new story or illustrations so unusual we can't stop thinking about them. However we recognise it, that "something special" is always different. Of course, we use categories, benchmarks, market analyses and personal opinions. But at the start of a really promising book there is always something almost inexplicable, a magic, a spark, a fascination that kindles our great passion for every title in our list.

With Nuffi and Me, a new interactive board book series, it was the adorable plush toy by aprilkind and Julia Bierkandt's joyful illustrations that captivated us at once, introducing us to a loveable character whom toddlers can identify with.

All the while Anna Fleck's Seaglow – The Secret of the Deep for young adults took our breath away from the first line with its romantic mysticism. Dive into an adventure full of wonder and fright!

A close encounter with a dinosaur, looking it right in the eye? This becomes possible in Lifesize, where incredible illustrations bring you face-to-face with the giants – some will surely cause a few goose pimples.

Shortly after its publication, middle grade masterpiece Memento Monstrum by Jochen Till has sold more than 16,000 copies so far and its fan base is only growing further. Initially starting off as a crowdfunding project for a vintage photo album by illustrator Wiebke Rauers, Coppenrath editors brought two great talents together for a magnificent book project.

Your Coppenrath rights team is ready to support you with samples, pricings and schedules for our novelties and strong backlist titles – just get in touch with us.

- Debut author with over 18,000 enthusiastic readers on the social-reading platform fanfiktion.de
- The compelling first book in the Atlantis trilogy
- A tense page-turner full of crackling romantasy

Breathlessly in love ...
 A little storm surge ... Ella is determined not to let anything spoil her Cornish holiday in Granny's cottage. But when she saves what she thinks is a surfer from drowning, suddenly nothing in her life is like it was before. The mysterious Aris comes from another, mythical world – at the bottom of the ocean. Ella throws herself into an adventure full of wonder and terror. And it isn't just her heart that finds itself in terrible danger ... In her brilliant debut, Anna Fleck whisks the reader from one tense scene to the next, creating an enchanting underwater epic with a refreshingly disrespectful heroine. Once you dive in, you won't want to come up for air!

Anna Fleck spent her childhood in Bullerby, Fantasia and the Shire, and her youth on Gallifrey, the Volcano and the Discworld. She is a Romanticist, cultural manager and PR consultant, but prefers creating new worlds with her computer keyboard and pencils. She lives in the north of Berlin with her husband and children, and spends as much time as possible by the sea – no matter which one...

Skye series
 Each title:
 Lina Frisch
 14+ / 464–496 pp. / hardcover with holographic foil and spot-UV varnish / € 20.00
 All rights available

- The brilliant sequel to Falling Skye: frighteningly realistic
- A tension-driven, perceptive dystopia about discrimination and populism
- From the pro-regime servant to passionate rebel
- Lina Frisch – a young, feminist voice

The Transparent Nations – formerly the United States of America – are heading for the next great crisis, and nothing less than emancipation, equal rights and democracy are at stake. Skye and Hunter try to inform the public about the government's plan, particularly the ReNatura programme that calls women's rights into question in a big way. But it isn't just the Crystallisers who are hard on the young pair's heels ... a breathless chase begins. Can Skye's love for Hunter survive the fight for freedom and equality? What is her mother Beth (the powerful head of an underground organisation) hiding? And will Skye ever be able to trust her feelings?

Falling Skye · Vol. 1
Can You Trust your Own Mind?
 ISBN 978-3-649-63344-0

Five years ago, the USA became the Transparent Nations. Its citizens had had enough of impulsive decisions, which had brought their country to the edge of catastrophe. After that, people finally stopped being judged by their skin colour, gender or religion, but on whether they were rational or emotional. 16-year-old Skye is convinced she's a Rational, with a glittering future ahead of her. But that's not how the new order sees it ...

Skye is excited: it's not long until her Test, which will determine whether she is a Rational or an Emotional – a question that will determine the course of her whole life. But the exams in the test centre are disturbing, and the mysterious Examiner, who keeps flouting the rules to help her out of risky situations, is driving her out of her mind. When a fatal accident happens, Skye's doubts begin to crystallise: where do the girls who slip down the daily ranking disappear to? Why doesn't there seem to be a single Emotional among the boys? To her horror, Skye realises who is supposed to pay the price for the new order in the Transparent Nations: it's her.

Lina Frisch is 22 years old and is studying psychology. Inspired by her studies, her debut YA novel explores up-to-the-minute issues such as feminism and equal rights, populism and fanaticism. Above all, however, Falling Skye is a love story and a page-turner about a brave girl who stands up to a sinister world despite her fears – because it's important.

- An old castle, a crafty heroine and a mysterious family curse
- The perfect read for all private eyes who love brain-teasers and a pinch of mystery
- With exciting illustrations by Julia Christians

Malvina Moorwood is clever, cheeky and quite quick – and not only when it comes to polishing off her dessert. When her parents decide to sell the old family castle, Malvina immediately decides: there's no way she's going to let that happen! With investigative skill, a little cunning and more than a little sass, she and her friend Tom plunge headlong into a hair-raising adventure to save Moorwood Castle. Along the way, she not only stumbles across a genuine ghost and an old family curse, but also a map that holds the prospect of some very promising treasure ...

Christian Loeffelbein studied German, literature and art history, and then worked as a journalist. He now lives in Hamburg and thinks up exciting stories for readers both young and old.

- The true stories behind Yetis, werewolves and vampires
- Deluxe edition with large 4-colour illustrations and special cover decoration
- Tongue-in-cheek storytelling by "Lucifer Junior" author Jochen Till
- Brilliantly illustrated by Wiebke Rauers

Count Dracula believes his end is nigh: a weekend alone with his three grandchildren – how is he supposed to survive that?! But then they get their hands on the old photo album and all of a sudden, Grandpa Dracula is a pretty cool guy! Because only he knows that the enormous Yeti is really a girl Yeti, who dreams of becoming a ballerina. And that a werewolf was the best drummer of all time, and a sea-monster once broke all the swimming records at the Olympic Games. The reasonably true memoirs of Count Dracula – tales to delight the whole family!

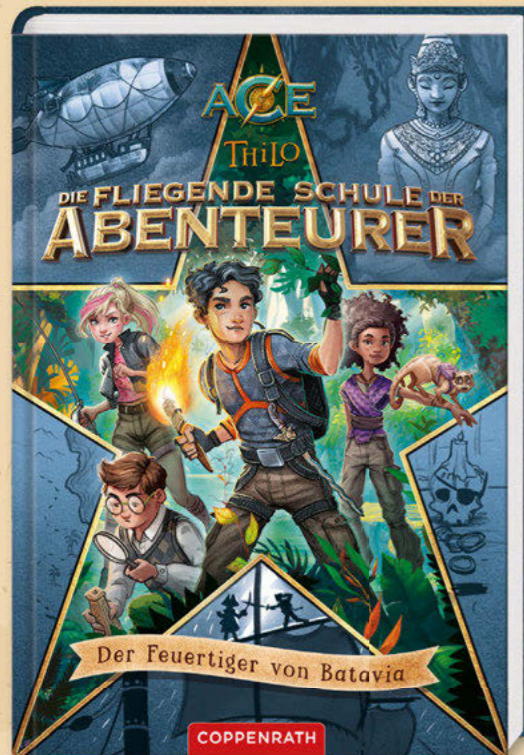

Jochen Till was bitten by an aristocratic old writing vampire. Ever since then he has been sitting in his chamber night in, night out, sucking stories of adventure from his fingertips, always careful never to lose his blood-red thread.

Wiebke Rauers was bitten in 2007 by an eighth-generation artist vampire. Ever since then she has been sitting in her studio night in, night out, drawing the most wonderful characters, using lots of her favourite colour: blood red.

- An unlikely brother and sister tangle with the Nordic gods
- Breath-takingly illustrated with a host of colour pictures by Helge Vogt
- 66,000 copies sold – 3rd vol. planned

A real family and his own home in the ice city beneath the waves – really, Mats should be happy at long last. But no one truly understands him here, including his twin sister Finja. Right now, she can't think of anything but training to be a guardian of the spring and practising ice magic; she doesn't have time to worry about her brother. But soon the two have much bigger problems: the young gods have come up with a mind-boggling plan that threatens not just Rulantica but the whole of mankind. When the giant snake Bölvon wakes to life, a struggle for survival begins – for Finja and Mats, and all people both on land and in the sea.

EUROPA-PARK'S NEW WATER PARK RESORT

– RULANTICA is one of Europe's largest water theme parks (more than 32,000 m²)

– EUROPA-PARK is the world's largest seasonal theme park with over 5.6 million visitors per year

The Hidden Island · Vol. 1

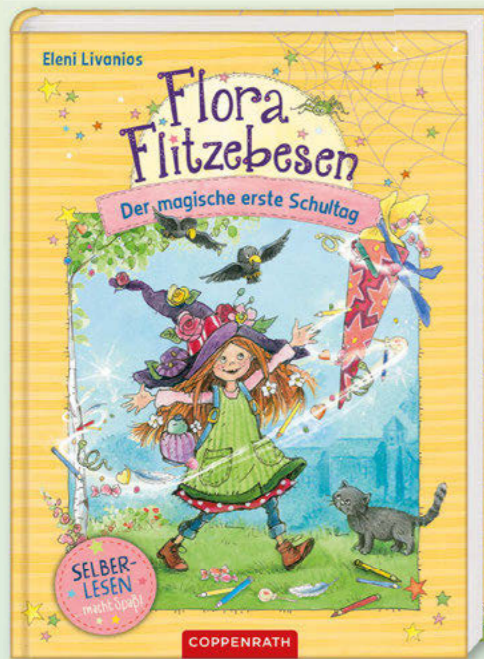

ISBN 978-3-649-62722-7

Aquina the mermaid has always felt different to the other merpeople of Rulantica. Not long after her twelfth birthday, she learns something incredible: she has a twin brother. Mats is a human boy! And right now, he's in great danger. There is no holding Aquina back, she has to find her true family before it's too late. Mats has grown up in an orphanage, since he was found on the beach as a baby. He's always been afraid of the sea and the water. But he has no idea that he's about to dive headlong into the greatest adventure of his life! When Mats and Aquina meet, they fulfil a centuries-old prophecy by the Nordic gods – and it can mean either the salvation or the end of the whole island world of Rulantica ...

Michaela Hanauer lives with her husband and cat in Munich – when she isn't off on her travels, exploring the other side of the world. If she hadn't become a children's author, she would have taken flying lessons on a magic carpet, raced dolphins through the sea or started a time travel agency. She met Aquina, Mats and Snorri so they could tell her their story and she could write it down. And so she knows exactly where Rulantica lies – but she has promised never to reveal the secret!

- Popular character – now for independent reading
- Finally: the first day at school with Flora Fleetbroom!
- Strong characters for children to identify with

Flora can't wait for her first day at school. But buying school things with Mama and choosing a magic wand is exciting, too! So exciting that Flora absolutely has to take a peek into the sealed magic-wand box at home, and do a bit of practice with it. Just a tiny bit! Though of course, that's strictly forbidden... This magical new story is all about Flora's first day at school.

Eleni Livianos was born in Graz in 1975. Even as a little girl, she loved to write and illustrate stories – and both have remained her great passion to this day. Following a degree in art history, she now writes and illustrates for a number of German publishers. She lives in Graz with her two children.

- School fun in the underwater world
- Ideal for beginner readers

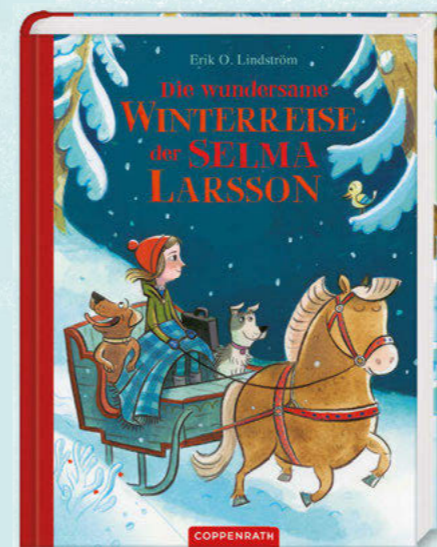

School? No way, manta ray! That's what Meja Mermaid thinks. Sitting still the whole time, threading strings of pearls and weaving seagrass... that's all much too boring! But when the new teacher, Mrs Dotta, takes over lessons, Meja starts to take an interest. From now on, gymnastics, experiments and discovery are all on the timetable – just what the boisterous little mermaid needs. Mrs Black, the headmistress, doesn't agree with the new methods and is desperate to get rid of Mrs Dotta. Meja needs to come up with a plan, and fast!

Erik Ole Lindström was born in Stockholm in 1979. He worked in television for many years. He is now a writer and journalist. He thought up the story of "Meja Mermaid" for his own children. Lindström lives on one of Stockholm's skerry islands with his four-year-old son, eight-year-old daughter and the family dog.

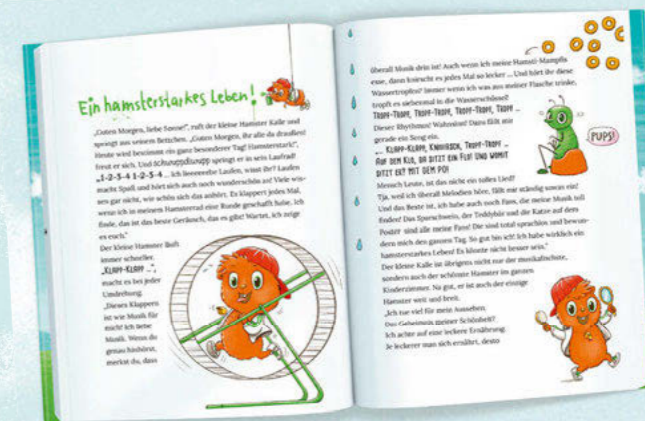

While his cage is being cleaned one day, Kalle spots his chance. He's off! All alone in the big, wide world, at first he feels quite lonely. It's pretty dangerous out there! Luckily he meets Rosa Rat and Croakmaster Craak the frog. They are not only the best friends in the world, but just like Kalle, they have rhythm in their blood ...

Little Hully Boo dreams of one day haunting Castle Burgeck. But for now, he's just an apprentice ghost – he hasn't learned how to really scare people yet! And where better to learn than in the attic of the castle's primary school? It's the secret headquarters for ghosts, witches and other magical creatures. Frederik the bat teaches Hully Boo everything he needs to know: how to make things float in the air, bring suits of armour to life and walk through walls. It isn't easy! Especially when you're as loud and clumsy as Hully Boo. But the ghost's heart is in the right place and – together with the little witch Hedda Hex – he helps plenty of children when they're in trouble.

Spooked and Bewitched! · Vol. 1

The little ghost Hully Boo and his friend Hedda Hex the witch have their hands full once again. Anton urgently needs their help! If his parents don't manage to renovate their farm-hotel soon, they'll have to sell it to the greedy Mr Münzsack and move away from Burgeck. And then there's the school Halloween party, in which Hui Buh and Hedda Hex do a lot of interfering. After all, each of them wants to win the competition and be the scariest. It's no surprise that in the process, they manage to convince even the grumpy teacher Mrs Sauermilch, who doesn't believe in ghosts and witches, that they really do exist!

- Big topic for children: fairness
- With funny, heartfelt words by Matthias Morgenroth, and illustrations by the brilliant Astrid Henn

Elias can't believe his eyes: his horrible maths teacher suddenly has an ink-blue tongue! And there is a giant "Z" on the board. Z for Zorro? Has the man who avenges the poor and the helpless been to their school? Elias and Luna, the new girl in his class, would love to meet this mysterious hero. Suddenly, Zorro's sign starts appearing all over the town. But when Elias's surrogate granddad Kurt is forced out of his home, Elias can't just sit around waiting for Zorro to arrive. He will have to do something about it himself ... A strong story for all those who have courage, or would like to.

- The totally mad granny weekend
- A witty story about a "not quite perfect" family
- Written with heart and humour by brilliant storyteller Matthias Morgenroth

Who is the mysterious old lady with the Shetland pony in the playground? Why is she hiding in the bushes with a telescope? And why did Mum throw her out of the flat? Leni and Jonas have a suspicion: could the pony lady actually be ... their granny? When Mum goes away on another of her weekend seminars, Leni and Jonas decide not to let their grandmother get away. If necessary, she will have to be kidnapped! No sooner said than done: the pony lady succumbs to her fate ... and they set off on an adventure that the three of them could never have dared to dream of – with a camper van, a pony and lots of summer sun. But Jonas and Leni don't yet know that the police will soon be hot on their heels ...

Matthias Morgenroth has been writing children's books and adult non-fiction for many years. He also works as a journalist and editor for radio and TV, writes for various newspapers, gives seminars, buses with his friends and enjoys going on reading tours. He lives in Munich with his wife and three daughters. His children's book Freunde der Nacht (Friends of the Night) was awarded the Rattenfänger-Literaturpreis.

Am Teich ist heute Schwimmstunden!
Die schwimmt vor und alle sieben folgen ihr. Von seinem Ast aus hat der einen besonders schönen Blick auf die
Die wachsen im Wasser. Die und schwimmen auf der Wasseroberfläche.
Der kleine springt vom ins Wasser.
Achtung, kleiner, da kommt der
Und sie, der hat den entdeckt.
Der hat sogar schon einen gefangen.
Die lässt sich von dem ganzen Trubel nicht stören.
Sie liegt lieber in der Sonne. Ein zweiter sitzt auf einem Stein und beobachtet hungrig die die gerade vorbeifliegt.

Granny's Dinosaurs series

Each title:
Dominik Hochwald / Jörg Ihle / Petra Fritz
3+ / 40 pp. / 25.4 x 30 cm / hardcover with spot-UV varnish / € 14.00
Rights sold to (series): France

- Exciting topic: (aquatic) dinosaurs living in our world
- Warm-hearted grandchildren-grandmother relationship
- Successful series 20,000 copies sold of first book
- In cooperation with the Europa Park in Germany

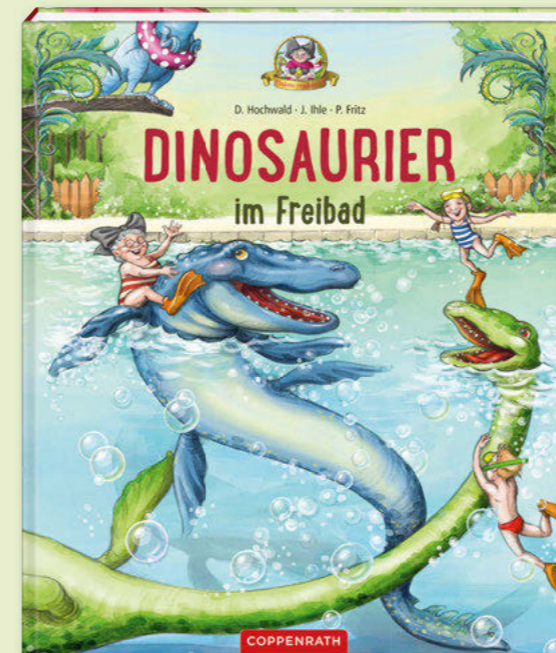

Leon and Sophie are hugely excited about staying with Granny in the holidays. But the brother and sister could never have imagined just how HUGE their holiday is really going to be: Granny is hiding some real live dinosaurs in her greenhouse. The dino's are Granny's best friends, and they make brilliant playmates – even if it is hard to play hide-and-seek with a gigantic stegosaurus. Leon and Sophie soon realise that the dinosaurs don't have enough space. But where on earth should they go?

Leon and Sophie's Granny has a special secret: she breeds real live dinosaurs! And she has already found the perfect home for her aquatic dinosaurs: a disused lido in the woods. With its pools and slides, the lido should be a dino paradise, but sadly it is quite old and in need of repair. While Leon and Sophie are playing ball with the dinosaurs, something terrible happens: a young plesiosaur accidentally gets into a drain pipe that leads to a big river! Will they ever manage to find the baby dino ... ?

- Top subject: mermaids
- A story with lots of humour
- Strong characters & enchanting illustrations

The underwater palace is a frenzy of activity: it's just a few days until the birthday party they are holding for the ancient crab Gustav Crabcake. Mr Crabcake is about to turn 300 years old. But then an invitation is suddenly turned down – Mr Crabcake doesn't want to come to his own birthday party. While her mermaid sisters are still busy preparing for the big event, Nella Nixie hurries off to see Mr Crabcake. Because if there is one person who can change the old gentleman's mind, it's the bubbly Nella. Will she manage it? And if she does – what on earth should she get the old crab for his birthday?

The first Nella Nixie adventure, for little mermaids aged 3 and up.

- Important themes: responsibility and consideration for others
- Loveable protagonist for readers to identify with
- A story packed with humour and excitement

Aquina has her seahorse, and Aquarian has his kelpie. It's just Snorri who doesn't have an animal of his own. And the little sixtopus is determined to change that – but it isn't easy. The shimmering sea snail is too boring for him, the coot is too small and the seal is much too playful. Finally, Snorri makes a sensational discovery in a beautiful ice grotto: there is a young grey shark playing in the cave! He is not only large, but pretty dangerous, too. The perfect pet for someone like Snorri – or maybe not ...

- Encourages children to be curious and open with each other
- Interesting character: a chameleon who transforms himself into other animals

Schmitt is gripped by curiosity when he sees some hares frolicking about behind a high wall. Can he play with them? But the hares are shocked: it's strictly forbidden to play with animals who look different to you! It's a good job Schmitt can transform himself into any animal – he quickly turns grey like a hare. But one of them still won't agree. He does his very best to shut Schmitt out of the group. And there is nothing he won't stoop to ...

- New, modern illustration style from Stephan Pricken

Saturday morning, 5.47 am. Joschi is wide awake – but sadly, Mum and Dad aren't. And Joschi really, really wants to listen to an audiobook. But he can only do that in the living room. And there are monsters ...

But when the monsters go after Trichen rabbit's carrots, Joschi plucks up all his courage and blocks their way. Knock, Platsch und Pong are cupboard-crawlers – so called because they crawl into the human world through one cupboard, and out again through another. The three of them would really like to get back to their own world right away, but not every cupboard is suitable for crawling. Can Joschi help them find the right one ... ?

THE BEST-SELLING SERIES THE GRUMBLETROLL by aprilkind

The Grumbletroll series

Each title:
 aprilkind, Barbara van den Speulhof / Stephan Pricken
 3+ / 36 pp. / 23 x 30 cm / hardcover / € 14.00

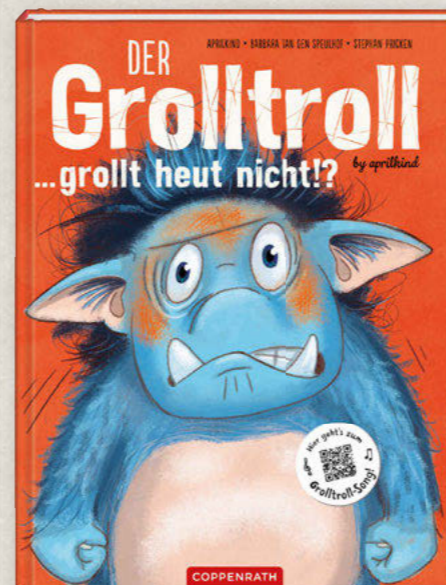

Rights sold to (series): Bulgaria, Denmark, The Netherlands, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Spain (Catalan, Spanish), USA (World English)

- Over 100,000 copies of the series sold
- Important topics: being first, comparing yourself with others, a healthy sense of self-worth
- A story told and illustrated with humour, and without any finger-wagging
- Character with high identification potential for children (and their parents)

The Grumbletroll only wants one thing: to win the big soapbox-car race! Luckily, he's come up with a special gimmick for his car, which really does allow him to overtake everyone from behind. The bird is so startled that he crashes into the barrier! The hedgehog drives into a rock, the mouse pulls her steering wheel off and the hare can't stop in time. Now the Grumbletroll has it easy, and he's the first to cross the finish line. Winner! But is it really such a good thing to be first when your friends have fallen by the wayside?

The Grumbletroll ... isn't Grumbling Today!? · Vol. 2
 ISBN 978-3-649-63164-4

Of course he will! The Grumbletroll makes a bet with his friends. But when they swipe a delicious cake from under his nose, all he wants to do is scream and stamp his feet. Then he remembers the bet – and puts the grumblestorm aside. But when his friends laugh at him, he can't take it any longer. Now the Grumbletroll wants to grumble and rumble and thunder and flash with anger. And that's exactly what he does! Will his friends be able to make it up to him ... ?

The Grumbletroll · Vol. 1
 ISBN 978-3-649-62893-4

What a splendid life – if it wasn't for the stupid hut that falls down even though the little troll went to so much trouble to build it. Or the stupid tree that he can shove and shake as much he likes without a single apple falling. The little troll gets terribly angry. It's like there's a storm inside him. With lightning shooting out of the sky and thunder rumbling and grumbling mightily. Yes, that's exactly how he feels: he's a troll who rumbles and grumbles. A grumbletroll!

aprilkind

Steffi & Michael Gerharz live in Troisdorf, near Cologne, with their three children. Under their brand name, aprilkind, they design and develop stories and cuddly toys that children play with all over the world. The idea for the Grumbletroll came to them when their youngest daughter was sitting across the breakfast table from them with arms defiantly folded, pouting and grumbling. The little troll quickly took shape as a transformable cuddly toy, who can show both anger and joy, and they had the idea for his first picture-book adventure.

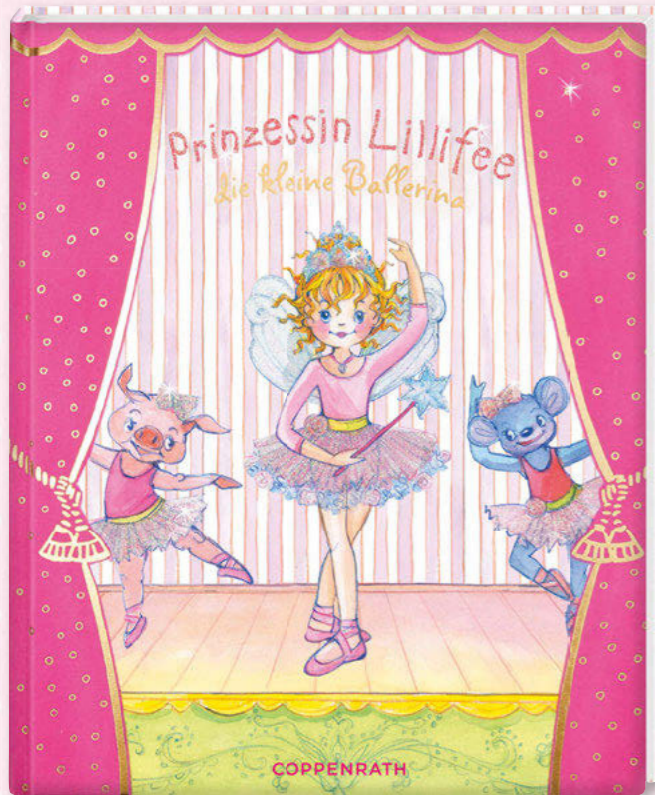

Barbara van den Speulhof

As a passionate children's book author, director and producer of (children's) audio dramas, Barbara van den Speulhof knows that the topic of anger plays a large role in a lot of families – so the idea of the little troll, who gives free reign to his rage and has to learn about how it makes his friends feel, was a perfect fit for her. Her story brings the Grumbletroll and his anger to life – with love, authenticity, and no hint of finger-wagging.

Stephan Pricken

As father to a son, Stephan Pricken is familiar with terrible fits of anger. After flirting with mechanical engineering and architecture, he initially studied to become a primary school teacher, with a focus on art, followed by graphic design in Münster, where he still lives. Today, he is a freelance illustrator. Developing the little troll based on the existing cuddly toy was unusual but exciting work for him, and he has done a fantastic job of it – you can't help but love his Grumbletroll!

Capt'n Sharky

- Central themes: solidarity and friendship
- Excitement and adventure for young children
- Revisiting old protagonists and worlds

There is quite a to-do on the pirate island: all the pirates have come together, because this evening young Jaro is to be crowned Pirate King. But the Redcoats throw a huge spanner in the works: they kidnap Jaro and wreck the whole harbour, along with the ships anchored there! But there's one ship the Redcoats have overlooked: the Taruga. Capt'n Sharky and the other pirates set off in hot pursuit – will they manage to rescue Jaro?

HILARIOUS BANDIT STORY

The Wild Bandit Thunderfart and the Cursed Wild Boar Spell - Vol. 5
ISBN 978-3-649-63485-0

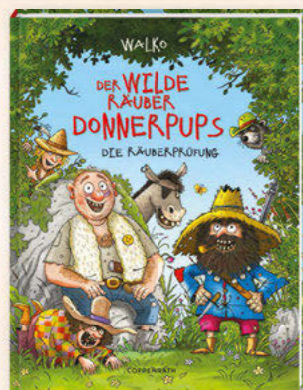

- Popular topics for boys: bandits and farting
- Funny story with elements of slapstick
- From the pen of successful author and illustrator Walko

Curses! The little witch Simsibim is just about to test out a new magic spell when the wild bandit Thunderfart comes round the corner. And poufff – the robber captain gets turned into a hare with a beard and a robber’s hat. Trying to turn him back only makes matters worse: now Thunderfart is a wild boar. Obviously he can’t stay like that. But luckily, Robin stumbles upon an ancient reversing spell in one of Simsibim’s books. Though for the elixir, they will need bristles from the tail and the ears of a real wild boar – and everyone knows how terribly angry they get when you annoy them ... All the same, Robin appeals to his fellow bandits’ sense of honour. And together they set off – only to end up in a tree after running away from a giant boar. The robber captain has no choice but to lie in wait himself. Can his thunderfart get him out of another tricky situation ... ?

- An appeal to society's sense of justice

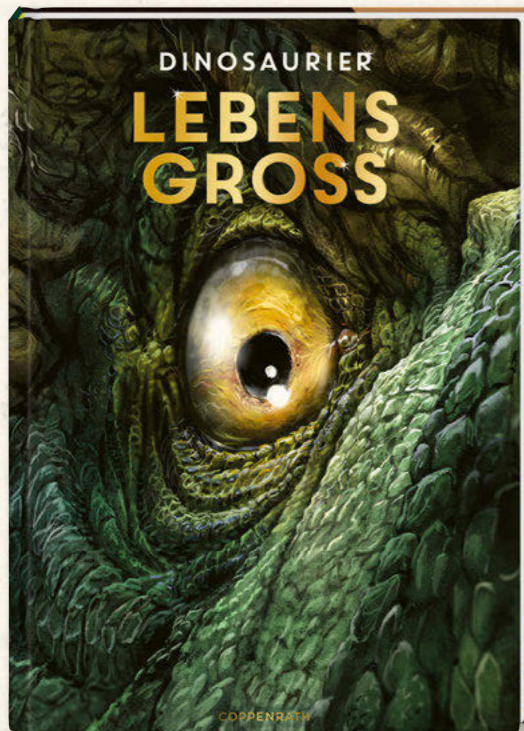

Children change the world! The world isn't always the way we'd like it to be. There are people who have too little of the most important things. And the world has much too much of some other things: rubbish, for instance. And sometimes there is something quite simple lacking in our everyday lives: friendship and good ideas. That can all be changed! Not everything at once, of course, and not straight away. But little by little, if everyone just does what they can. Where we start doesn't matter; the important thing is that we start today!

“Look after old things and don’t be so wasteful,” my mother always used to say – and maybe this is the reason why I moved to an old farm at a young age, built shelves out of wooden boxes and our company’s first publishing building was constructed in 1763. Renovate, restore – use things over and over again. That is my philosophy – and I am pleased that this value is experiencing a new awareness.

György Höely

For us, sustainability means ...

... increasingly including environmental and climate-change considerations in our day-to-day work, being more conscious of our carbon footprint, and asking ourselves every day what more we can do. Our roots lie in our company philosophy: a granary from 1896, the old fire station from 1928, and furniture from various different periods – both in Münster and at the book fairs – vintage is more than a trendy word for us. Useable over and over, sustainable and beautiful.

Environmental protection plays a large role ...

... and not only in the sustainability task force, which is staffed across various departments. In each programme planning meeting, our books, products, packaging, sources of supply and transport are examined. We look for alternative packaging materials, considering where we can save on materials, as well as, focusing primarily on durable presentation materials. Together with you, we would like to develop future-oriented forms of presentation for our articles.
